The NMR DG seeks to award a number of student bursaries to assist towards the cost of attending the Joint Discussion Meeting of the German and British Magnetic Resonance Societies, September 07th to 10th 2015, Darmstadt, Germany

Guidelines for these awards are as follows:

- A limited number of bursaries will be made available, the total number and value being decided by the NMRDG committee.
- The application deadline for the event is 7th August 2015, with applicants informed of decisions within two weeks of the deadline. The criteria outlined in this document will necessarily be fulfilled for all applications.
- Applications are open to current PhD students based in a UK University or research institute.
- Applicants are expected to present at the conference/meeting (as either oral or poster) and their application for a bursary must be accompanied by an abstract outlining the proposed content of the presentation (maximum 1 A4 page).
- Applicants should declare the likely sources of their other funding toward attending the conference, and state how the bursary would facilitate their attendance. This should include a statement on how their project work is funded (a research council, industrial, etc).
- The research supervisor of each applicant is also asked to write (email) to confirm their student's intention to participate and present at the conference/meeting.
- Both the student's application and the supporting supervisor statement must be sent to the current NMRDG secretary, preferably via email (info@nmrdg.org.uk)

Payment

Bursaries will be paid to successful applicants on receipt of proof of travel, submitted either before or after the meeting. This should include submission of photocopies of tickets/travel documents (showing cost and travel dates), accompanied by a receipt as proof of payment.

In the event that the recipient is unable to attend the meeting the value of the bursary payment should be returned to the NMRDG.
